

Poll Workers With Disabilities

Current as of July 9, 2015

It only takes one person to make a difference.

Anyone 17 and older can be a poll worker. Why not you?

Being a poll worker means interaction with your community and an opportunity to show the public that people with disabilities enjoy the rights and opportunities available to everyone.

What better way to break down barriers?

As a poll worker you can:

- Identify and fix issues of accessibility.
- Create ease for voters using adaptive voting machines.
- Ensure polling sites are comfortable and accessible to everyone, especially for people with disabilities.

To work at the polls, you:

- Must be 18 years of age by Election Day.
- Must be registered to vote.
- Complete poll worker training.

Will I get paid to be a poll worker?

Yes, you will get paid for working from before the polls open at 6:30 a.m. to when they close at 7:30 p.m. Breaks are permitted throughout the day.

Can I get class credit?

High school seniors, who are at least 17 years of age and a U.S. citizen, may be excused from school for one day to allow them to serve as poll workers. Talk to your teachers about using your experience for extra credit.

Where will I work? Can my friend work with me?

 Usually, poll workers are placed near their homes. Boards of elections can usually accommodate partners and friends working together, if you apply and ask soon enough.

What if I don't know enough about voting rules?

 Your local board of elections provides training to every poll worker, and you will be working with others who help each other.

Contact your local board of elections to apply to be a poll worker!
